

Our Daily Bread

Sliced Thin by The Editor

Alex. H. Washburn

THIS is an editorial that, at this season of the year, writes itself.

This Friday night Hope is opening the high school conference year with a football game against the Benton Panthers. A great many people will be in the new stadium—people of various habits and tastes.

Let every fan handle himself with due regard for the proprieties of public conduct, so that all may enjoy the game for which this great structure was erected.

One thing that from time to time troubles the management of football stadiums all over the nation, is public drinking. Regardless what some people profess to think, you and I know that most of the drinking at football games is done by mature persons. There is conclusive evidence from the universities that alumni give more trouble than the students ever do. Furthermore, this is a plea to the older folks here in Hope to remember that when at the football game they are in plain view of hundreds of high school students, and to refrain from drinking while on the school premises.

X X X
Speaking of school matters, classes begin next Monday and right then the parents and the city police ought to co-operate to prevent students from hitch-hiking down Main street to the high school.

In past years it has been the custom for students to catch rides to school, either riding on the running-board or overcrowding the car's interior.

This is a violation of state law. Parents should bring this to the youngsters' attention, and the police ought to start the year right by making a few technical arrests the first day.

Japan Now Largest Investor in China

Stake Exceeds That of Britain, Heaviest White Investor

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—In trying to understand what's happening in the Far East today, keep this fact in mind: Japan in five years probably has become the biggest single investor in China, including Manchuria.

By "investor" I mean the citizens of Japan, and by "investments" the capital they now have in Chinese commerce, trade and industry.

Foreign investments in China at present stand about like this:

Japan	$1,500,000,000
Great Britain	1,250,000,000
United States	250,000,000
France	200,000,000

Germany, Russia, Belgium and the Scandinavian countries hold most of the rest of a total close to $3,500,000,000. These approximate figures represent a consensus of totals struck by various "experts."

Peculiar Business
Now, investments often have a good deal to do with fights between nations. They have a particular and peculiar bearing on the Sino-Japanese "war," because the investment of money in China is nothing if not peculiar.

Peculiarity No. 1 is the way China was opened to foreign investors. China was mining her own business, such as it was, when gunboats "convinced" her she wanted to play ball with the rest of the world.

Having forced China into the international ball game, the Japanese and the western nations found the China of a hundred years ago was not an ideal place for investors.

Ground Rules
The Chinese have their own rules of business conduct, for one thing. Business is a personal thing to a Chinese, and the clothes it with social amenities. Business is entirely above the compulsion of law, he believes, and it is rather low and stupid to keep accurate accounts. Thus, to the Chinese, corporate finance and its laws are a form of odious business practice.

That's why, even today, the necessary capital to develop China on a par with western nations is lacking. That's why ancient China is still a nation rich in undeveloped natural resources.

China, besides, has had so much internal strife that, in the past, an investor could not expect to get his money back.

MIND Your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it good taste to continually flatter others?
2. Is an introduction correctly acknowledged by "Glad to know you?"
3. Does a well-bred person ask many favors?
4. Should one tell his personal troubles to acquaintances?
5. Is it a good policy to correct the mistakes of others?
6. What would you do if—
Someone starts telling you some gossip about a person who is one of your good friends—
(a) Say frankly you would rather not hear it?
(b) Listen in silence?
(c) Listen to the story and then try to defend your friend?

- Answers
1. No.
2. No. Say, "How do you do?"
3. No.
4. No.
5. No. One person in a thousand might possibly appreciate being corrected.
6. Best "What Would You Do?" solution—(a). It is letting a friend down to listen to anything against him.

Roosevelt Likely to Ask Black to Resign If Kluxer

President Reported Waiting for Flat Denial From Justice

PROBE IS WIDENING

Demands Are Heard for investigation of Other "Kluxers"

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Senator Wheeler, Montana Democrat, Friday joined the critics of Justice Hugo Black's alleged membership in the Ku Klux Klan, declaring President Roosevelt should appoint an impartial investigating board.

May Mean Resignation

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Talk that President Roosevelt might ask Justice Hugo L. Black to resign from the Supreme Court was heard in the capital Thursday amid new and bitter criticisms of the Alabamian's alleged Ku Klux Klan membership. The Washington Evening Star said the impression was growing that the president would adopt such a course unless he receives a flat denial from Black that he had been a member of the hooded order.

Hints at Others

Discussion of possible presidential action in the case highlighted a number of developments, including a hint from Representative Fish (Rep., N.Y.) that a "thorough investigation" might reveal a number of Southern Democratic congressional leaders in the ranks of the Klan.

Fish's veiled attack was made in a statement in which he said responsibility for Black's appointment "rests squarely with the president."

"I am inclined to believe," the New Yorker said, "that if a thorough investigation was made a number of prominent Democratic leaders in Congress from Southern states would be found on the Klan pay roll or affiliated with the 'organization.' He suggested that 'if Klan affiliations are to be a test of public office, it might be well to find out the status of the speaker of the House (Representative Bankhead), who, like Black, hails from Alabama. Fish said it was Senator Bankhead (Dem., Ala.), brother of the speaker, who had told his senatorial colleagues Black was not a member of the Klan."

Fish said that Black merited the "highest censure" for what the New Yorker termed "the fact that he either encouraged or permitted his friends to deny his membership" in the hooded order. "If President Roosevelt fails to compel Senator Black to withdraw as a justice of our highest tribunal," Fish continued, "the people will rightly say, 'a plague on both your houses.'"

Mr. Roosevelt used this quotation several weeks ago in discussing public reaction to the steel-C. I. O. strike controversy.

Legally Challenged
Word came from Boston that Patrick Henry Kelly, Boston lawyer and a member of the Supreme Court bar for many years, had challenged equity of Black's appointment to the bench. Kelly said he had filed an information with the high tribunal contending there was no legal vacancy in the court's membership for Black to fill and that he was automatically eliminated from appointment because he was a member of Congress when "enoluments" for Supreme Court justices were "increased."

Kelly's action was the second attempt to have the Supreme Court itself keep Black off its bench. Albert Levitt, a former federal judge in the Virgin Islands, asked the High Court on August 18 for permission to file a petition demanding that Black show cause why he should be permitted to serve as an associate justice. Levitt resigned from the Justice Department in July after incurring his superiors' displeasure by opposing appointment of Lawrence W. Cramer as governor of the islands.

Visiting Panthers to Carry Power in Game Here Friday

Bobcats in Good Shape Though Ramsey's Ankle Is Injured

FIELD OPENS AT 7:15

Starting Time 8 p. m.—No Truth to Shreveport Cancellation

The question of the Hope High School football team's real power will be answered Friday night when the team meets the potent Benton High School squad at 8 p. m. at the new athletic stadium here.

The Hope team is in good shape with the exception of Percy Ramsey, veteran wingman, who was injured an ankle in practice late Wednesday afternoon. Coach Hammons said he would probably start Ramsey at his regular position, but in the event the injury gives him trouble Captain G. V. Keith will be shifted from his guard position to end.

Watson or Still will take over the guard post if Ramsey is replaced by Keith at end. The balance of the squad is in shape, Coach Hammons said.

First Conference Game
The Bobcat mentor had little comment as to the outcome of the game. He predicted a hard battle from start to finish. Added importance to the game is the fact that it is a conference battle.

It will be the first game of the season for the Panthers. The Bobcats have played one game, having defeated Horatio here last week. The Hope squad will have a slight weight advantage, according to figures released by coaches of the two teams.

Coach Ben Means of Benton reported that his squad was in good physical shape and was prepared for a hard tussle. A large delegation of fans will accompany the Panthers here.

Visitors, as well as local fans, may obtain admission tickets at Hope Confectionery, Jacks Newsstand or Webb's Newsstand. Adult tickets are 50 cents, student tickets 25 cents. By purchasing tickets at either of the three places confusion at the gate will be avoided.

Entrance gates will open at 7:15 p. m., giving fans 45 minutes before the start of the game. The officials and probable starting lineups appear in a two-column box on this page.

Rumors that Byrd High School of Shreveport had cancelled with Hope were spiked Friday by Coach Foy Hammons. He said that he had a one-year contract with officials of that school, and that the team would come here next Friday on a special train from Shreveport.

SHANGHAI, China.—(AP)—Additional Japanese reinforcements for the halted drive against the Chinese defense line were reported Friday to have been landed on the lower reaches of the Yangtze river.

A Japanese spokesman declared the troops had already started advancing inland. This was taken to mean that a considerable body of Japanese had finally achieved a foothold on the Pootung coast where they are opposed by an estimated two divisions of Chinese.

Windsors Banned Still From London

Duke and Duchess of Kent Fail to Call on Them Abroad

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Return to England Thursday night of Duke and Duchess of Kent from a lengthy European tour which failed to include a meeting with the Duke and Duchess of Windsor revived lively discussion of former King Edward's exile.

There were rumors while the Kents were in Europe that they would visit the Austrian honeymoon chateau of the Windsors and bestow a royal blessing on the marriage of the former king and Wallis Warfield. The visit never materialized.

The royal boycott remains unbroken and the campaign to keep the Windsors out of the public eye since the abdication continued. With the sanction, if not at the instance, of Buckingham palace, the press, the radio, and the newsreels have co-operated to bury news of the Windsors and publicize all the activities of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

Behind this there has been and is a broad diversity of attitudes toward the former king. One section of the press, though always placing the king and queen in the forefront, warily champions the Windsors, their right to royal recognition and residence in England. But the most friendly papers failed to print the incident in Vienna two days ago when Austrian welcomers shouted "Heil the king! Heil Edward!" on the occasion of the Windsors' arrival for a short stay.

Newsreel officials said no movies of the former king and his bride have been shown in Britain since their marriage. A quiet suggestion from Buckingham palace that the "queen mother" might be distressed by any such movies was enough for the movie men.

In the conservative press, news items of the Windsors have been buried in the back pages and even the friendly papers have hesitated to give them much more prominence. But a group of admirers of Edward has formed a Society of Octavians pledged to "silence detractors of the former king," and uphold his honor. The society holds no restoration aims, but delegates printing anti-Windsor articles with scores of complaints.

One publication printed the rumor the Dutchess of Kent and Windsor really like each other, but that another young member of the royal family is so bitterly opposed to the former Mrs. Warfield that royal recognition has been withheld on her account.

Overwhelmed in New York Election by "New Dealers"

Copeland, Anti-New Dealer, Beaten by Farley's Mr. Mahoney

LA GUARDIA, G. O. P.

Fusion Ticket Leader, Friend of New Deal, Republican Winner

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The New Deal won a smashing double victory over Tammany in New York City's mayoral primaries.

Tammany's candidate, Senator Royal Copeland, New Deal foe, was defeated in both the Democratic and Republican primaries, Friday's count of Thursday's election showed.

Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, head of the anti-Tammany Fusion movement and friend of the New Deal, wrested the Republican nomination from Tammany's candidate by more than 30,000 votes.

Jeremiah Mahoney, choice of James Farley as the candidate of the anti-Tammany New Deal coalition, defeated Copeland for the Democratic nomination by more than 160,000 votes.

Early Returns
NEW YORK.—(AP)—Votes in the populous boroughs surrounding Manhattan gave pro-New Deal Jeremiah T. Mahoney a heavy lead late Thursday night over Tammany-backed Royal S. Copeland in New York's Democratic mayoralty primary.

Brooklyn, the Bronx, Queens and Richmond—all led by Democratic chiefs friendly to James A. Farley and President Roosevelt—were going three to one for Mahoney in partial returns. Manhattan, Tammany's ancient home, was turning out in the ratio of about five to one for Copeland.

Many for LaGuardia
The "write-in" campaign for Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, among the Democrats, hampered somewhat by the necessity of spelling out the null name "Fiorella H. LaGuardia" on the ballot, appeared on the evidence of early returns to be assuming important proportions. Political leaders generally agreed what ill effect it worked upon by the New Deal and supported Mr. Roosevelt in 1936.

Lewis Urges Trade Territory Work
Declares Hope Should Launch Movement for More Farm Customers

"Other towns, including our neighbors, are promoting friendship and trade by an organized campaign to establish closer relations with their farm customers—and it is high time Hope launched such a movement here," C. C. Lewis told the Rotary club Friday noon at Hotel Barlow.

Citing a trade day movement at Prescott (Ind.) and the recent Peach Festival at Nashville, Mr. Lewis went on to say that the collective business life of Hope was doing little or nothing to stimulate friendship with the people of this territory.

"We have one of the best boys' bands in the state, and a community of good business men to furnish leaders and workers, so there is no reason why we shouldn't make periodical visits to rural communities and invite them in return to visit Hope," he declared.

Mr. Lewis said that advertising paid dividends for any sound enterprise, and would pay dividends in this community trade enterprise, if the business men would get together and make a trial promotion.

"I don't know that we can ever eliminate the mail-order catalog that takes so much money out of our territory and state," he said, "but I do know that we can reduce the loss from what it now is. . . . Like you, I don't really want to know how much money is being lost to us every day at the postal money-order window. . . . I'm afraid to ask."

"This trade promotion is something for the Chamber of Commerce to launch, and for each one of us to support personally."

A club guest Friday was E. H. Lillie, secretary of the new Chamber of Commerce.

Van Kitchens, 30 Old Lewisville, Is Kicked on Jaw

White Farmer Reported Instantly Killed—Neck Is Broken

UNCONFIRMED HERE

Negro Woman Gives Star Information on Rural Accident

Van Kitchens, about 30, white farmer living 18 miles southwest of Hope near Old Lewisville, LaFayette county, was reported killed Friday morning when kicked in the head by a mule.

Kitchens' death could not be confirmed except for a telephone message from Henrietta Nichols, negro woman, who lives in that community. The negro woman told The Star she received her information from a negro man who lives near the Kitchens farm.

Kitchens is reported to have been kicked on the jaw, the blow breaking his neck. The report said he died a few minutes later.

Hope Furniture company undertakers said they had received reports that Kitchens had been kicked, but were unable to confirm reports of his death.

Lindy May Become a British Citizen

Not Happy in England, But Detests Invasion of Privacy in U. S.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—A professional source associated with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said Thursday the famous flyer intended to renounce his American citizenship and become a British subject. The informant declined to be quoted, or to permit use of his name, but his connection with Lindbergh was an established one. Confirmation or denial could not be obtained elsewhere.

The Lindberghs sailed for England nearly two years ago. Under English procedure it is necessary for a prospective subject to have resided in British territory for five years within the last eight years before application can be made. One of these five years must have been spent continuously in the part of the British Isles where the applicant is to become a subject. The application must be signed by two British householders for filing with the Home Office, which has the final say.

Lindbergh's lawyer, Col. Henry Breckenridge, who acted as the flyer's spokesman at the time Charles Lindbergh Jr. was kidnapped and slain in 1932, said of the report: "The only person who can confirm that is Colonel Lindbergh himself. No one else has a right to speak for him that I know of."

The informant's story was the third intimation in recent months that the Lindberghs did not intend to return to the United States. The first came from friends who visited the Lindberghs in England a short time ago. They said later that Lindbergh was not completely happy in his new home but was determined not to return to America until assured of the privacy he desired, and that he feared such assurances might never be possible.

Last month Lindbergh was reported negotiating for purchase of the Island of Milio, once owned by Aristide Briand, late French premier. The flyer did not deny the report.

His life in England has not been that of a recluse. He took out a British pilot's license and has flown a lot. He has worked a great deal at his technical tasks as advisor to the Pan-American Airways in its trans-Atlantic flying operations. He has worked with Dr. Alexis Carrel, American scientist, in perfecting a "mechanical heart" and made his debut as a scientific lecturer in Copenhagen after his flight abroad.

Pre-Historic Mummy Is Displayed in Cave

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Mammoth Cave's pre-Columbian mummy, thought by archaeologists to be the most interesting relic of its kind east of the Mississippi, is now displayed in a new moisture-proof case in the cave. It is shown a few feet from the spot in which it had lain for untold centuries before it was found, the national park service says. Suspended over the spot where the body was found is the five-ton rock which caused the death of the pre-historic mummy.

Planned Flying Pays Off

AFTER two months of trial flights over the North Atlantic, for which four nations pooled data and resources, it is announced that trans-Atlantic airlines are feasible.

Simultaneously comes news that coast-to-coast American commercial air service is now 10 years old, with more than 120 million miles of flying to its account. Trans-continental trip time has been lowered from 48 to 15 hours.

For such important accomplishments, these brief, terse announcements strike the observer as somewhat understated. Actually, they are in complete accord with the new attitude toward pioneering. And they recall the Bureau of Air Commerce suggestion that planned air progress is much more satisfactory, much more fruitful than any specie of stunt flying.

In the light of these two latest accomplishments of aviation, it seems that the Bureau's advice was good. We are learning to blaze trails without ballyhoo.

Manhattan Spittoon Spat

SPITTOON is a horrid word and cuspidor isn't much better. But combine either of them with a swastika and a Nazi signature and you have something that passes all understanding for Manhattan borough president Samuel Levy.

Twenty-four new spittoons delivered for use around Mr. Levy's office were inscribed on the Swastika and the words, "Made in Germany." Immediately and definitely they were rejected.

Mr. Levy was tempted to remind the city purchaser that the man who appointed him to office was Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, vice president of the Nazi Boycott League. Furthermore, Mr. Levy said, the fiber spittoons were "sleazy."

But let's see. Maybe there's room for a compromise. The spittoons may be sleazy. But there's nothing especially sweet and fragrant about the current New York mayoralty campaign, either. Maybe the two could be put together to guard voters against getting their clothes splashed when they waded to the polls.

The Family Doctor

T. M. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Miscellaneous Glands Now Regarded as Vital Essentials in Good Health

This is the conclusion of a series of 20 articles by Dr. Morris Fisher discussing functions and ailments of the glands of the human body.

(No. 321)
In addition to the glandular materials that have already been mentioned, there are certain miscellaneous materials now known to be vital to health.

The stomach, for example, secretes juice which is necessary for the digestion of food. There may be, however, other materials coming from the stomach wall which are vital in the growth of the red blood cells. There may be still other substances necessary to the action of the stomach and bowels.

It is known that the wall of the intestines secretes certain materials necessary to digestion. When food passes, the wall of the intestines quite likely gives forth these substances which go into the blood to stimulate the liver and the gallbladder and perhaps also the pancreas.

From studies of anemias of various sorts, we know that the liver contains some substances which are absolutely vital in the development of red blood cells and that an extract of the liver may be given to stimulate red blood cell formation.

It has been suggested that there are glandular principles which come from the kidney and the heart and from other tissues, but the research on this is still in an early stage.

Of special interest also is the relationship of the glands to the vitamins. It has been shown that the adrenal glands are particularly rich in vitamin C; the liver is particularly rich in vitamins A and D.

If animals are given a diet that is without vitamins A and B, eventually the thyroid gland breaks down. It is established that excess amounts of thyroid gland have a definite relationship to vitamin B₁ and neuritic symptoms.

Such mixtures have been shown to be without any real value, since most glandular preparations are effective only when given directly into the blood.

This new information relative to the glands of internal secretion is an indication of how little we know about them.

Lack of knowledge makes necessary a warning against exploitation of glandular materials by quacks and charlatans and unethical druggists who endeavor to treat diseases by mixtures of glands that are like glibet soups.

Such mixtures have been shown to be without any real value, since most glandular preparations are effective only when given directly into the blood.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

Adult Attitude Makes Children Self-Conscious

People in general are afraid of children. A man will address another man who is a stranger, and a woman will speak to a woman, but unless they are very unusual, they will hesitate to say a word to a strange child.

Moreover, adults are not at ease with other children than their own. Even aunts and uncles don't know how to talk to Johnny sincerely all the time. Strange, isn't it? Even dogs and cats are treated better than this.

No wonder children get the idea that to be a child is a bit of an ordeal. They wonder, I gather, just how often new people they meet is going to take them.

Boy on Defensive
The boy walks across a strange field, for instance, thinking something like this: "If the farmer sees me, he will watch to see what I'm doing. Maybe he will put me off. If I were a man, he would not pay any attention. Kids are always suspected of being up to something. I'm only going to look at the creek, but if I were a deer or a woodchuck, nobody would bother about me."

He doesn't reason it all out this way, but he has a subconscious feeling that he is not welcome because he is only four feet high instead of six. The child outside his regular orbit of home and school, or his street, seldom is himself, really. How can he be with people talking down to him in that patronizing voice, usually a strained falsetto, and saying foolish things. "How old are you, sonny?" as though anybody cared. "Where are you in school?" "Who is your teacher?" And all the old bromides that he has to answer over and over again.

The way to treat a child of any age is to be serious with him. Look him in the eye and ask what make of plane he likes best, or did he ever catch any fish.

Treat Them as Equals

He knows a lot about everything, much more than you do half the time. He will feel at ease with you at once when he discovers you are behaving like a human being and not a stick. Lose that fear. No youngster is any different from a grownup. If children are shy and queer sometimes, at that they behave better than we would were we shunned, or patronized, or suspected, or worse still, tolerated.

Even parents often miss the fact that they are dealing with people quite as intelligent as themselves. They take the great big attitude, when it is not necessary. Treat your boy as you would your brother, your girl as you would your sister, and see how great they can be.

Yesterday, Amy hurried to her death on the ground below, outside Cilly's window. Tricilla rushed out, saw the crushed body, picked up a slip of newspaper gripped in Amy's lifeless hand.

CHAPTER III

HOW long she knelt there on the cold ground beside Amy's body, Cilly did not know. She did not hear the innumerable cries and questions of her neighbors; she did not see the crowd slowly gathering—the crowd of half-awakened men and women in all stages of midnight undress. It seemed as if the world had suddenly begun to spin in a crazy, fast-motion kaleidoscope, and she would soon awaken to sanity.

Endless seconds passed into three short minutes, and a radio police car drove up to the door. Two officers stepped out. Half a dozen people in the crowd spoke at once, each eager to tell his own version of the accident. "She fell from the roof, officer. She felt herself going and screamed." "She didn't fall. She jumped. She appeared in hyperthyroidism, seemed to be related to a deficiency of this vitamin."

This new information relative to the glands of internal secretion is an indication of how little we know about them.

Lack of knowledge makes necessary a warning against exploitation of glandular materials by quacks and charlatans and unethical druggists who endeavor to treat diseases by mixtures of glands that are like glibet soups.

He'll ask me a million questions, Cilly thought, and what will I tell him? She tried to organize her own thoughts about Amy's death—but it was all so unreal.

Soon another officer arrived. Halleran introduced him. "Sergeant Dolan, Miss Pierce. He'll handle everything." Halleran left them alone.

"He'll handle everything. He'll ask me a million questions, Cilly thought, and what will I tell him? She tried to organize her own thoughts about Amy's death—but it was all so unreal.

"The young lady was a relative of yours?" Sergeant Dolan asked. She'd already answered that, but of course he didn't know.

"No, A friend. We've been working together in the Cannon Building for about six months. Two months ago, Miss Kerr decided to share my apartment with me. It seems now as if I know very little about her."

"Do you know of any reason why she might have committed suicide?"

Cilly started. "No! Oh, no, she didn't commit suicide!" Immediately she regretted speaking so definitely.

"Why do you say that?" Sergeant Dolan asked. "What else could it be?"

Cilly dropped her eyes wearily. "Oh, I'm sure I don't know. But there was no reason in the world for Amy to—to do that."

Was there? After all, what did she know of Amy Kerr's life before a few months ago? Was there some shadow from the past that frightened her? Amy hadn't acted frightened or unhappy today, and surely not this evening.

PATROL IS FAILURE

Was Effort of 27 Nations to Cut Off Civil War Supplies

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Britain Friday ended the unsuccessful non-intervention patrol of Spain to make available her full quota of warships for the "more important task" of driving pirate raiders from the Mediterranean. France joined in the decision.

The foreign office announced the end of the patrol, which was formed by the 27-nation non-intervention committee in an effort to keep arms and men from either side in the Spanish war.

GENEVA, Switzerland.—(AP)—The nine powers participating in the war against piracy in the Mediterranean signed Friday night an accord providing for a crusade against airplanes and warships as well as submarines.

Ames & Wakefield, real estate people. She liked her work very much.

There was a light knock on the door and a short, plump little man entered.

"Hello, Doc," Dolan said. Then to Cilly, "Dr. Bender, the medical examiner."

Dr. Bender nodded in a kindly manner to Cilly. "Unpleasant hour to run in on you, young lady," he said apologetically, "and unpleasant business, too. However, I've taken care of everything."

"Make an examination, Doc?" "Too dark for much of that. Fall was enough to kill anyone, of course. We've moved the body, and there'll be a thorough examination tomorrow. What about this young lady tonight? You won't want to stay here?"

"Yes, I think so," Cilly said. "I'll be quite all right, and much more comfortable than anywhere else."

"Dare say you're right," agreed the doctor. Dolan arose to go.

"Guess there's nothing more I can learn here tonight," he said to Cilly. "We come up against these suicides every day—and in most cases we never know why they have to be. Melancholia of a sort, I guess. Or insanity. Hard to tell. Well, goodnight, miss. Sure you'll be all right here alone?"

"I'm sure, thank you both."

CILLY was glad when they both had gone, although they left her feeling miserably alone and terrified. Just two hours ago, and Amy was here too. The apartment still echoed her laughter. Her slippers were there under the bed, where she had left them early in the evening. Her bed was turned down, waiting for her.

A terrible trembling seized Cilly. She began to cry. She reached into her pajama pocket for her handkerchief. She touched the piece of newspaper that had fallen from Amy's hand.

Curiously, she smoothed it out and examined it. A Utah newspaper clipping. Bluefields, Utah. What was Amy doing with that? It was part of the "town gossip" column. Mr. and Mrs. John Blair announce the birth of a son. . . . Miss Margaret Seldon spending the week in Denver. . . . Joe Barlow, hermit of Blue Peak, failed to appear in Bluefields for his semi-annual "storing up." A delegation from town discovered his shack in the mountains unoccupied, and it is feared that Joe wandered too far during one of last winter's blizzards and froze to death. . . .

Small town news events. What did it mean to Amy? How could the birth of the Blairs' son, or Margaret Seldon's vacation, or the disappearance of a hermit in Bluefields, Utah, concern Amy Kerr, of New York and New Hampshire?

Cilly crumpled the clipping and dropped it into a vase, turned toward the bedroom. Suddenly she stopped. . . .

In the stillness of the apartment she heard the dumbwaiter going slowly down the shaft. It passed the level of her kitchen. She started, at first. Queer time of night for people to be running the dumbwaiter. Or was it time so soon for the milkman?

But what did it matter? She was suddenly quite drowsy. She put out the light and went inside to bed.

Borah Defends Courts as Protector of Personal Rights

Independent Senator Observes 150th Anniversary of Constitution With Speech on Supreme Court

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Senator Borah (Rep., Ida.) appended Thursday night for the maintenance of "uncontrolled courts" as the only guarantee that American liberties will be preserved. In a speech commemorating the 150th anniversary of the signing of the constitution, he swung without preface into a discourse on the battle of last winter over the administration proposal to re-vamp the Supreme Court.

Still clinging to the objective of a reorganization of the high tribunal, President Roosevelt also will deliver a Constitution Day address Friday night.

Borah assailed as false what he termed a current "pessimistic" theory that economic security can be had only by sacrificing personal liberty. He criticized those who, he said, have been asserting that the constitution is not a "sacred document." It is sacred, he said, against all changes except those written into it by the people.

Refers to Dictators
He referred scornfully to developments in the lands of the dictators, declaring that the constitution and free courts to interpret it safeguard American against such experiments. He took exception to recent statements emanating from Germany concerning rights of Nazis abroad.

Without referring to Germany by name, Borah referred to a "high official of a foreign government" and declared that official had said "emissaries from his country coming here to preach their doctrine must be protected by our government, that they must enjoy, as it were, immunity in their efforts to sow the seeds of religious intolerance, race hatred, and arbitrary power among us."

Borah said that these emissaries will have liberty of expression, but if they break the law they will put on trial "not in the puppet courts of their homeland, but in independent courts."

Supreme Court Protector
Referring again to the need for untrammelled courts, he said:

"There is no such thing as security for the masses or protection for minority groups, political, racial, or religious, never has been, and in the nature of things never can be, under any form of government save government where the people through their representatives make the laws and untrammelled courts construe them."

There have been times, he said, when "political forces" have sought to disregard constitutional guarantees, and in fact to "close the courts."

"But," he added, "when national feeling has run high—as national feeling at times inevitably will—when great leaders have swayed with the storm—as great leaders sometimes do—

The Story of the Constitution

Again it was 20 years before an amendment was made. During all that time there was intermittent campaigning for an income tax, but the Constitution provided federal taxes might be levied only in proportion to population. But in 1913 the 16th Amendment was passed, giving power to levy taxes "without apportionment among the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration."

Senators had always been elected by the state legislatures, thus removing their choice one degree from popular mandate. For years there had been mounting indignation against the Senate as a "rich man's club," and bribery and connivance in legislatures was widespread and notorious. In 1911 an amendment was submitted providing direct election of senators by the people.

This, the 17th Amendment, became part of the Constitution in 1913 as Woodrow Wilson's administration was inaugurating "the New Freedom." It further democratized the system of representative government, and vindicated a demand that had grown stronger over a period of more than 20 years. The Senate had five times rejected this proposal after passage by the House.

Crowning many decades of agitation against liquor, the 18th or Prohibition Amendment was adopted in 1918. The World War with its restrictions and regulations provided the impetus needed to make into law a reform that had been most earnestly sought. It prohibited "the sale, manufacture and transportation of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes."

Just one hundred and fifty years since the Constitution of the United States was adopted, as the basic or fundamental law of the Republic. It is a precise, formal written document; there is no national power superior to it; its foundations were so broadly laid as to provide for the expansion of national life. The news commentator, Edwin C. Hill says, "It is the noblest Charter of Human Liberties ever conceived by man."

"We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America," etc., etc.

We hold that once every year at least every American should read the Constitution; if you have read it, read it again and renew your pledge to stand by America for good or evil, through gain or pain, for she is your country.

"My country, 'tis of thee, Sweet land of liberty, Of thee I sing; Land where my fathers died, Land of the pilgrims' pride, From every mountain-side Let freedom ring!"

exactly the same consequences. Wrong and evil courses in modern America are just as sure to curse American society as they were in the life of an ancient people, while the tuning of our hearts and minds to right principles and sound conduct will bring us blessing that ever fell upon any people devoting themselves heart and soul to truth and right.

Sound laws and obedience to them, the setting of the welfare of all against the welfare of the few, regard for justice that may be done to the lowliest person in society, consideration for the weakest and most in need, the use of God's bounty to supply the widest and deepest human needs—these are the things that bring blessing in the life of a people. These are the things that are associated with a proper recognition of God and a manifestation of his goodness.

How can one teach and proclaim these things so that they will take deeper hold of our life today and turn the hearts of our people from selfishness and inconsiderateness to devotion themselves more truly to the seeking of God's blessing on our national life?

A nation's choice has its roots in the choices of individuals, yet individuals are influenced by the whole attitude of the society in which they live. Sound choices are inextricably associated with right ideas and ideals.

U. S. Beer Captures Award in Europe

Fox Beer Given First Prize at Exposition in Brussels, Belgium

Once again the U. S. A. has beaten Europe at her own game. What is more, Europe graciously admits defeat by passing out a gold medal to the victor. The victor is Fox DeLuxe Beer, which was awarded first prize at the Brussels (Belgium) Exposition in competition with the world's finest brews.

just about perfect in quality and flavor to win this outstanding international award.

"While I was delighted to hear we had won the prize," commented Frank Fox, President of the Peter Fox Brewing Company, Chicago, "I was not surprised. Our brew masters learned how to make fine beer in the old country, and they know practically every secret of the art. We use only the finest imported and domestic hops and malt. We do not tolerate modern hurry-up methods. Our brew masters take plenty of time, and the finished product is leisurely lagered under uniform temperature control. Only when it is thoroughly aged and mellow do we bottle it.

That is why Fox DeLuxe has genuine old-country flavor, why it was good enough to win the prize."

Fox DeLuxe is so popular that the brewery has to operate 24 hours a day to keep up with the demand. Jax Distributing Company is the local distributor.

Choices In a Nation's Life
Text: Deuteronomy 11:8-12, 26-32

The teachings of this lesson on choices and their consequences in a nation's life are set forth very clearly and simply. The children of Israel were facing the prospect of entrance into the promised land. It offered them the opportunity of a land flowing with milk and honey; it was a land of hills and valleys, with fruitful fields watered by the rain of heaven. But the children of Israel were facing this land with its opportunity with two clear choices before them, and with the alternative plainly stated of blessing or of curse. If they gave themselves to the commandments of God and other observances of right principles, there was before them the prospect of blessing; if they turned from these commandments to selfish and evil ways, if they established corrupt worship in place of truth and right, there was for them only a curse, rather than a blessing.

It turned out in the history of Israel exactly as these prophetic words foretold. Ruin and destruction came upon the people when they forgot God, and turned to their own selfish and evil ways. Yet, in exile and in adversity, when the people really turned to God, a glory shone upon the nation even in its seeming defeat.

These things have not changed. Nations and peoples today are confronted with exactly the same choice and with

STORIES IN STAMPS

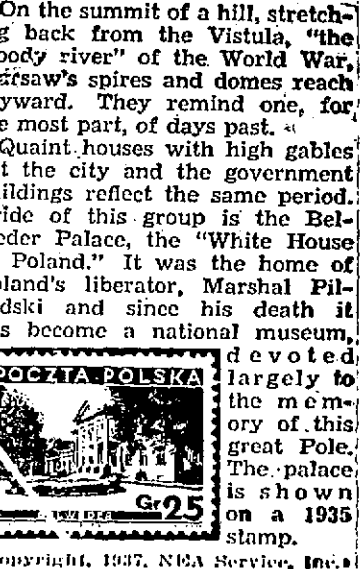

WARSAW: BRIDGEHEAD OF TWO WORLDS

BETWEEN Bolshevism, on the one side and Hitlerism on the other, Warsaw, the capital of Poland, today links two "worlds." To the east Russia presses forward with a new solution for an ancient problem while to the west Germany seeks still another expression for its desires.

There was a time when Warsaw was eclipsed only by Paris. In those days it stirred the envy of Prussia, Austria and Russia. Then its glories faded under attacks from every side. But now Poland is coming back and Warsaw again assumes something of its old importance.

On the summit of a hill, stretching back from the Vistula, "the bloody river" of the World War, Warsaw's spires and domes reach skyward. They remind one, for the most part, of days past.

Quaint houses with high gables dot the city and the government buildings reflect the same period. Pride of this group is the Belvedere Palace, the "White House of Poland." It was the home of Poland's liberator, Marshal Pilsudski and since his death it has become a national museum, devoted largely to the memory of this great Pole. The palace is shown on a 1935 stamp.

Home-Planning Is Club Council Topic

Hinton Is Hostess Club at Meeting Held in Patmos School

Home-made-homes was the keynote of the program of the Home Demonstration Club Council which met Thursday at the Patmos school with the Hinton club as hostess club. Miss Bullington quoted Dean Gray of the College of Agriculture, University of Arkansas and said that all the individual farmers need to do is to use their intelligence, muscles, and artistic ability in bringing about what nature had placed in this state free of charge for home making purposes, as stone, gravel, and timber.

These materials when brought together and made into some kind of structure are wealth. Extension Service offers a house planning service which is available to any one who wants to make use of it.

A playlet given by members of the council portrayed a typical farmer's wife as a woman of no occupation but a doer of many. The housewife in her various roles was played as follows: Housekeeper—Mrs. Carroll Schooley; Gardener—Miss Faye Samuels; Cook—Miss Polly Rouse; Milk maid—Mrs. Bill Schooley; Landlady—Miss Alice Hayton; Club woman—Miss Melva Bullington; Business woman—Mrs. O. B. Hodnett; Seamstress—Mrs. Lee Garland; Nurse—Mrs. Carroll Schooley; Poultry woman—Mrs. Lee Garland; Mother—Mrs. Hamp Huett; Grandmother—Mrs. Camp; Sister—Miss Faye Samuels.

The devotion of the Hinton club, Mrs. W. E. Simmons of the Hinton club gave the welcome address with the response by Miss Faye Samuels. Mrs. O. B. Hodnett and Mrs. Vera Reeves gave interesting reports on the visit to Camp Pike at the state home demonstration camp. Mrs. Reeves showed us how to play three games using homemade equipment.

The county scrap book and the better homes report were exhibited. At the noon hour the meeting was climaxed by a visit to Hinton club house where delicious punch was served to the visitors from an improvised well in the yard. Miss Glyn Black told the story about how the club house was built. Mrs. John Gibson and Mrs. H. J. F. Garrett of Hope attended the council. The next meeting will be in connection with Achievement Day on November 12, 1937, in Hope.

Modern Menus

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer
Never fall in the soup, but by all means put soup in the fall menu. A pleasant autumn luncheon consists of a cream soup served with croquettes or toasted crackers, a salad and a simple dessert. Serve for formal dinners a clear soup. For a simple home dinner serve almost any type of soup and plan your dinner accordingly. If you start with a heavy soup, such as chowder or split pea, have a simple dinner. If your soup is clear soup or a noodle or vegetable soup, the dinner may be a bit more hearty.

Orange Soup
(4 to 6 servings)
Two and one-half cups orange juice, 1 cup water, 2 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1/2 cup sugar, pinch of salt.
Boil water, add sugar and salt. To this add tapioca and cook until tapioca is clear. Add fruit juice, heat and remove from fire. Serve hot or cold.
Cream of Watercress Soup
(4 to 6 servings)
Three stalks of celery, 1/4 onion, 4

Sour Milk Cooking Modernized

Ready for the oven—a mouth-watering sight, Holland apple pie, smooth and rich and tart all at once.

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer
Sour milk cooking may sound old-fashioned. But it's as modern as tomorrow's newspaper. During the past two years, sour milk has become so popular in the large cities where good food is famous that dairies now make it for consumer use and deliver it right along with the sweet milk for drinking. The dairy product may be no better than your own sour milk, but it is usually more uniform and therefore easier to cook with.

Corn Meal Griddle Cakes
Ingredients 1 cup corn meal (white or yellow), 1/2 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon sugar, 2 cups sour milk, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 teaspoon baking soda.
Mix corn meal, flour and salt, then sift together. Beat eggs well, combine with sour milk and melted butter. Combine liquid and dry mixture and stir well. Add soda dissolved in a little of the sour milk. Drop on hot griddle by tablespoons. Brown on both sides, then let Nature take its course.

Corn Cream Pear Pie
Seven or 8 cooking pears, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 cup thick sour cream, 1 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup tablespoons butter, 1 bunch water-cress, 2 tablespoons flour, 3 cups chicken or veal stock, 1/2 cup of heavy cream.

Chop celery and onion very fine, saute in butter, cook about five minutes. Wash watercress, chop and saute with celery and onion for five minutes more. To this mixture add flour, stir well and then add stock, stir until slightly thick and cook slowly for about one hour. Strain through a fine sieve, add heavy cream which has been heated and serve.

Shicken Soup de Luxe
(4 to 6 servings)
Three cups of chicken stock, 6 fresh tomatoes, 2 stalks celery, 1/4 carrot, 1/4 onion, 1/2 cup cooked rice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, little pepper, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/2 cup heavy cream.
Skin tomatoes. Cut celery, onion and carrot very fine, saute in butter, add tomatoes and sauteed mixture to chicken stock and cook slowly for about one hour. Add rice, salt and heavy cream.

Canadian Cheese Soup
(4 to 6 servings)
Two cups chicken stock, 1/4 cup diced carrots, 1/4 cup diced celery, 2 cups milk, 1/2 cup butter, 1/4 cup chopped onion, 1/2 cup flour, 1/2 tablespoon cornstarch, pinch soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, little paprika, 1/2 cup cheese, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley.
Cook celery and carrots in stock. Saute onions in butter. Heat the milk add flour and cornstarch which have been dissolved in cold milk. Stir until thick, add grated cheese and serve with chopped parsley.

2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca.
Wash, pare, and quarter pears. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Combine flour, granulated sugar, nutmeg and tapioca. Spread this on the bottom and sides of an unbaked pie shell. Combine the sour cream and brown sugar and dip each pear section in mixture and arrange in pie shell. After the pie shell is filled, pour the remaining sour cream mixture over the pear sections and place in a hot oven (400 degrees F.). After 15 minutes, reduce temperature to 250 degrees F. and continue baking for one hour, or until pears are tender.
This sour cream pear pie may be served hot or cold. The amounts listed are sufficient to fill an 8 1/2 inch pie pan.

Holland Apple Pie
Six or 8 apples, 1 cup sour cream, 1 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon quick cooking tapioca.
Wash, pare, and quarter the apples. Combine the flour and tapioca and pat into the bottom and sides of an unbaked pie shell. Combine cream, sugar, and cinnamon. Dip each apple section in this cream mixture, then place in unbaked pastry shell. After pie shell is filled, pour the remaining cream mixture over the apple sections.

High School Conference Grid Race Opens Friday Night

Benton, Hope Tilt One of Headliners

Hot Springs to Entertain Clarksville Friday Night

LITTLE ROCK.—Up goes the curtain on Arkansas's 1937 football season Friday afternoon and night, when more than 30 high school eleven compete in opening games. Included in the season's preview schedule are two clashes between members of the newly formed Arkansas High School Athletic Conference.

The first two conference games of the year will bring together the Clarksville Panthers and the Hot Springs Trojans at the Spa, and the Benton Panthers and the Hope Bobcats at Hope.

It will be the second game of the season for Coach Foy Hammon's Bobcats, having trounced Horatio, 40 to 0, last week, but the other three teams will be playing their initial contests.

The Little Rock Tigers may find themselves in as close a battle as last year's game when they open with the Catholic High Rockets in the high school stadium. Only a last quarter safety netted the Tigers a 15-to-14 victory last year.

North Little Rock, under its new coach, Bob Cowan, entertains the Beebe Badgers in another capital city gridiron feature at Wildcat Field. Both of the Greater Little Rock tilts are night attractions.

Two features among conference and non-member teams are the Smackover-Camden clash at Camden, and the Van Buren-Fort Smith tangle at Fort Smith. Both games are highly important sectional engagements.

Fine Bluff's always powerful Zebras go up against the McGehee Owls on the former's gridiron, while Coach Russell Charles sends his Fordyce Red-bugs against Norphlet. Ozark will play at Russellville. Forrest City goes to Greenwood, Miss., and Marianna runs up against the Jonesboro Golden Hurricane at Jonesboro.

Outside the conference, Paragould seeks its second straight victory in a game with Corning, while Paris also goes after No. 2 in a tilt at Fayetteville. Paragould trimmed Sloan-Hendrix, 14 to 6, last week, while Paris trounced Charleston, 32-0. Brinkley tangles with Atkins, Bentonville journeys to Springdale, and Gentry takes on Harrison on the Goblins field. Sloan-Hendrix attempts a comeback against Harrisburg, Helena entertains Elaine.

DeQueen plays host to Waldron, and Earle is home team to McCrory. Prescott's Curly Wolves play at Malvern, and Bearden is a visitor to Warren.

El Dorado's Wildcats, another conference team, opens its season with Ruston, La., at El Dorado.

vestment one day might be an ex-investment tomorrow. When the Boxer rebellion brought that problem to a head, the foreigners tried to achieve a smooth mixture of Chinese and foreign investments by pouring in the ingredient known as extraterritoriality.

That means a foreigner may enjoy the protection of the laws of his homeland in another country.

Adds Up to Trouble
Extraterritoriality couldn't happen in the United States, but if it could, it would work like this:

New York City's financial district would be figuratively roped off, and labelled "international settlement." The rest of the nations of the world would take charge of the area, operate it under their own laws and maintain their own courts.

Extraterritoriality—and certain treaties by which China accepts responsibility for protecting foreign investments in railways and other properties controlled by the government—have made Shanghai the "pearl of the Orient."

A Western Way
Japan, like the western nations, has played the game for all they are worth, and still her investors in China encounter the active resistance of the Chinese and the passive resistance of trade rivals.

Roosevelt Likely

of Black came from Representative O'Neil (Dem., N. J.) who said in New York, N. J., that he was one of the congressmen canvassed by Chairman O'Connor (Dem., N. Y.) of the House Rules Committee as to their attitude toward such action. O'Neil said he had telegraphed O'Connor:

"If Mr. Justice Black was a member of the Klan when nominated and confirmed his silence constituted a moral fraud upon the American people. Should he further refuse to explain his present relation with that order I refuse to repudiate its principles and purposes, I anticipate that the president of the United States will request his resignation. Should Justice Black refuse, I would vote to impeach him."

Opposed If He's in Klan
Senator George L. Radcliffe, Maryland Democrat, joined the growing list of senators asserting they would not have voted to confirm Black's appointment had they known he was a member of the Klan. An ardent New Dealer and personal friend of the president, Radcliffe asserted that anyone joining an organization as "obnoxious" as the Klan would be "unfit to sit on the supreme bench of the United States."

On the other hand, Senator Reynolds (Dem., N. C.) described opposition to Black as "a lot of spite and political propaganda." Reynolds said he knew nothing of the organizations to which Black belonged.

"I am confident he will discharge the duties imposed upon him by the Supreme Court with credit to himself and satisfaction to the American people," he added.

Rice Team Faces Tough Grid Card

Owls' Starting Line Powerful But Reserves Lack Experience

HOUSTON, Texas.—(P)—They've got something at Rice Institute this year—something only a bold schedule could stump.

Coach Jimmie Kitts, whose Owls lost too many headline decisions last year for a good club, doesn't know whether to grin over a grand squad or mumble over a murderous schedule. He does both.

Coach Kitts spoke with wisdom there. Ten times they will play with dynamite, opening October 2 against Oklahoma and then challenging, on successive week-ends, Louisiana State, Tulsa, Texas, Auburn, Arkansas, Texas A. and M., Texas Christian, Baylor and Southern Methodist.

Put those ten games in a hat, shuffle them, draw them out one at a time and you couldn't improve any date on the schedule," Kitts said.

His predicate laid, Kitts got down to the subject—his eleven.

Well equipped with a starting lineup, Kitts considers his reserves, consisting in the main of sophomores, potentially fine but inexperienced.

Two ends who sat with injuries on the sidelines through most of the 1936 season, Jim Nace, 195, and Walter Williams, 185, should get the nod in a bunch of nine wingmen. Kitts described Nance, a bad knee victim of last year, as "a boy as good as any the conference has seen in years."

Williams broke his collarbone in mid-season last fall but is back now as the speediest and most aggressive of the lot.

In reserve he has veterans Steen, Klindworth and Steakley and brilliant sophomore prospects in Hager, Robb, Sanger and Brannon.

Almost wide open is the scramble for tackles with veterans Art Hughes and Jess Hines, a couple of fast-moving 200-pounders, only a nose ahead of two sophomore giants, 212-pound J. R. Green, stormy captain of the freshmen last year, and 215-pound Ed Singletary. A third soph, Reinhardt Stansel, 205, will do more playing than bench warming.

Guards are plentiful with Capt. Charlie Moore, steady and hard working, at one post and Henry Stern, a senior veteran; Mat Landry, only 175 pounds but "very classy," and two "sophomores who just can't be kept out of there," Ross McBrayer and Bill Haner, also handy.

Two junior centers, Herman Price and Harry Arthur, must hustle to beat off three exceptionally good sophs, Howell Husbands, Sam Flowers and Kenneth Whitlow.

Kitts backfield could easily line up with Paul Hancock as the blocking back; Red Vickers in the tailback slot; loping Johnny Neece at right half and Jake Schuele at fullback—But there are countless other combinations, and all of them potent.

In the tackle crop, there is Ernie Lain, the soph passer (and very good, blocker, kicker and defensive grid); Bill Brandon, fine punter and good passer; and Doug (Scat) Sullivan, hurt last year but ready now.

Behind Neece there is Ollie Cordill, the west Texas soph who will show his ball-carrying stuff aplenty; Bob Brandon and Dan Coffee.

The fullback crops rounds out with Floyd Meebler, shifted from a blocking back; Bryce Parker, very fast, and Earl Glassie, a sophomore 200-pounder who is "big, loose and potentially powerful."

Co-Captains of Razorback Team

ROBBINS BENTON

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—Co-captains of the 1937 University of Arkansas Razorbacks are the two players who formed one of the greatest forward passing combinations in the nation in last year's Arkansas drive toward the Southwest Conference championship.

Jack Robbins of Little Rock, veteran quarterback, and Jim Benton of Fordyce, senior end, are the players who will share the captaincy this year.

Robbins has been a star passer ever since he broke into the lineup in his sophomore year and completed 95 forward passes for a total gain of 1,219 yards. Last year, when he missed three games because of injuries, he completed 54 passes for 554 yards. He has done most of the Razorbacks' punting

Playoff Resumed in Southern Loop

Travelers at New Orleans, Rogers or Humphries to Pitch

By the Associated Press

The Southern Association's five game play-off series will be resumed Friday with Memphis, Atlanta, New Orleans and Little Rock each holding a loss and a victory.

The teams were idle Thursday as they shifted ball parks.

Atlanta plans to use Emil (Dutch) during the past two seasons and averaged 7 yards every time he ran the ball.

Benton, also playing his third and last season of college football, promises to rank with the greatest Arkansas wide-men of all time. Last year he was on the receiving end of 35 successful forward passes, his completions accounting for 489 yards and five touchdowns. Defensively this 6-foot 4-inch wingman leaves nothing to be desired.

Both Robbins and Benton are seniors, the former in the college of education and the latter in the college of arts and sciences. Both were unanimous choices for the mythical All-Southwest Conference last year. And both were regulars on the Razorback varsity basketball team that went to the Olympic finals in New York City.

Lumberjacks Play Last Game Sunday

Will Oppose Okay Here; Elliott and Pate to Pitch

The season's final baseball game will be played here Sunday when the Williams Lumber company team meets Okay at 3:30 p. m. at Fair Park.

Manager Lloyd Coop said that Blackie Elliott and Ralph Pate would probably be the opposing pitchers, giving promise of a mound duel between two right-handed flingers.

Elliott will hurl for the Lumberjacks. Although not definitely decided Friday morning, Pate more than likely will be in the box for Okay. It was a known fact that Pate was being sought for duty by the Cementers.

Pate has pitched in two leagues this season, hurling for Monroe, La., Texarkana and Longview. Last Sunday he was on the mound for Hope, hurling the Lumberjacks to a 4 to 3 decision over Bosier City. Pate struck out 15.

A strong lineup was being assembled by Manager Coop for the season's final.
